I read Gone Fishin' last night.I thought it was a wonderful read and the author did a great job of getting three generations of family involved and getting their individual down to earth stories entwined in the plot. I was totally caught up in the goings on of the family. When I arrived at the last few chapters, that's when the emotion hit and I started to well up, as I could totally relate to what the author was eluding to. Almost every other page thereafter I had to remove my glasses and dry my eyes. This is a truly heartwarming, real to life story, that many family's have gone and will go through. Great read.
